

About Child Safe Environments training

The Department of Human Services has developed training for organisations that provide services to children and young people. The training helps organisations to:

- Support their staff and volunteers to recognise, report and respond to children or young people who may be at risk of harm, and
- build their capacity to provide safe environments within the organisation.

Training include information about:

- Child protection in context, values and attitudes
- Legislative obligations when working with children and young people for individuals and the organisation
- Risk and harm
- Sexual abuse and online grooming
- Responding to disclosures
- Mandated notification

It is recommended that organisations require staff and volunteers working with children and young people to attend training to understand their mandatory notification obligations. This is in line with the National Principles for Child Safe organisations.

The full day program is best practice for anyone, volunteer or employed, who works with children solely or partly. It is in accordance with the latest legislation: Children and Young People (Safety) Act 2017 and Child Safety (Prohibited Persons) Act 2016.
